

Patchwork

After meeting through a university exchange program in France, we instantly felt a musical connection. We are best friends who love to make music together. We began playing open mics in November 2019, and since then have sought to grow as artists and further explore our sound.

The summer of 2020 has marked many milestones for us as a band. In July, we released our debut single, Used to You, which has garnered attention from large curated playlists, music blogs, and the local Ottawa music scene. Leave Me, our second single, released only two weeks after, has been the subject of rave reviews, and landed on numerous playlists, amassing in excess of 10,000 total streams and leaving Patchwork with nearly 1,500 monthly listeners.

As with most bands, COVID has proved a difficult challenge, as our opportunities to play live has been greatly reduced this summer. However, this has allowed the band to focus our energy in the studio, as we are hopeful to have our debut EP available by the end of 2020.
